Credo - our guiding principles

The Board of Luftfahrt ohne Grenzen / Wings of Help e.V.

The Executive Board of Luftfahrt ohne Grenzen / Wings of Help e.V. has adopted this strategic credo, which serves as a fundamental guideline for the organisation's future work.

Luftfahrt ohne Grenzen / Wings of Help (LOG/WoH) will further strengthen its humanitarian operations at an international level under its newly elected leadership team – whilst remaining firmly committed to its home base in Frankfurt am Main and Frankfurt Airport as the organisation's hub. The Rhine-Main region, with the airport and its excellent infrastructure, is the ideal logistical base for humanitarian operations. For more than 20 years, LOG/WoH has played a key role in supporting projects in 35 countries with relief supplies, operating from its base in Frankfurt.

In future, we intend to place even greater emphasis on the aviation sector and to step up our cooperation with airlines, freight companies and Fraport AG. We remain committed to involving regional businesses, associations and sponsors as before, with the utmost confidence in the work of LOG/WoH, particularly with regard to projects carried out internationally from the Rhine-Main region.

We remain a member of the German Donations Council. LOG/WoH continues to be run predominantly by dedicated volunteers. We attach great importance to clear transparency and the efficient financial management of the organisation, which, thanks to strong partners and a large number of individual members, can look to the future with solid financial stability. Part of this transparency is our website www.wingsofhelp.org, which contains well over 1,500 files and detailed financial information.

LOG/WoH is to forge closer links with international bodies than before, whilst remaining apolitical as a non-governmental organisation. LOG is already an important member of the Aviation Sans Frontières (ASF International) network, to which aid organisations in ten countries belong. In future, ASF projects are to be tackled jointly on a cross-border basis. This will enable financial resources to be pooled to a greater extent. Special links exist with specific UN sub-organisations, which serve, amongst other things, as a basis for international work. The General Secretariat of ASF International remains under the leadership of LOG/WoH Board Member Marie-Luise Thüne.

LOG/WoH will continue its four-year commitment to Ukraine. At the same time, we intend to immediately launch further humanitarian aid projects that, for various reasons, have not been given as much attention in recent years, such as those in Africa or Asia. This also applies to emergencies within Germany itself, such as in the Ahr Valley, where LOG/WoH was frequently on the ground assisting people following the flood disaster. We also aim – in addition to our existing cooperation with the ASF network – to collaborate with organisations seeking bilateral partners at both national and international levels.

of "Bridge of Hope"

Luftfahrt ohne Grenzen / Wings of Help e.V. (LOG/WoH) demonstrated with its 30th lorry convoy since 2022 that the war in Ukraine – which has claimed hundreds of thousands of lives and left many more injured or displaced within the country – remained as intense as ever, even during the Christmas period. Those suffering the most are primarily mothers with their children and the elderly. The challenges facing the many aid workers from Central Europe are growing ever greater. Over the long term – for four years now – LOG/WoH has been using the 'Bridge of Hope', a logistically outstanding route it established itself, running from Germany via Romania directly to the people of Ukraine, to alleviate emergencies.

RELIEF SUPPLIES 2025 IN TONNES

This was also the case at the end of 2025 with Convoy #30, carrying relief supplies such as hygiene products, medicines, water for preparing baby food, clothing, blankets, toys and Christmas presents.

Targeted distribution in western Ukraine is important. To this end, after travelling through the Carpathians, the LOG/WoH lorries from Germany are transferred to Ukrainian-registered vehicles at the Romanian border for transport into Ukraine. As always, the aid consignment is accompanied by a LOG/WoH team from Frankfurt am Main, as was the case towards the end of 2025.

Mukachevo and Uzhhorod were once again the main destinations for the aid delivered by the convoy: in Mukachevo, LOG/WoH has been supporting an orphanage with 180 children for two years and is therefore fully aware of the specific needs of this facility. In nearby Uzhhorod, the regional capital of Transcarpathia, there is also an important distribution centre for incoming aid supplies. There, too, the deliveries from Germany – over 1,500 kilometres away – are most welcome, particularly among young families whose fathers are at war or have been killed in action. The regular support from Germany has become virtually indispensable, as the LOG/WoH team has also learnt from Ukrainian television, which provides in-depth coverage of every aid convoy from Germany. This was also the case with the convoy at the end of 2025.

Luftfahrt ohne Grenzen / Wings of Help e.V. (LOG/WoH) has honoured a humanitarian organisation in the Middle East that powerfully combines two key elements: providing aid to tens of thousands of people within its own country and maintaining a partnership spanning several decades with LOG/WoH, a renowned German aid organisation. With over 1,500 staff, the Barzani Charity Foundation (BCF) cares for refugees in 29 camps and tent cities in northern Iraq. The migrants are predominantly from Iraq or Syria, or belong to the Yazidi community, who suffered particularly under the rule of the IS militia.

A PERSONAL STORY

Ibrahim is given a new perspective

LOG/WoH has also taken on the plight of individual young people – the aid organisation is now supporting nine-year-old Ibrahim. He was born in Syria and was forced to flee from the IS militia with his parents and three siblings. Ibrahim's father has been teaching chemistry and physics to refugee children in a camp near Erbil for eight years.

His greatest wish is to live with his family in their own flat in Erbil and to leave the camp as soon as possible. LOG/WoH is helping Ibrahim with small financial contributions, primarily to help him progress at school – and perhaps one day to study in Germany, just as his older brother has managed to do; he now lives in Stuttgart.

Through these efforts, BCF not only provides around 300,000 people with temporary shelter and ensures they have food and medical care – it also looks after the education of young people. The work of this non-governmental foundation, based in Erbil, supports schools in camps, and is continually strengthened by the efforts of LOG/WoH, which is well acquainted with the needs and shortages in the Autonomous Republic of Kurdistan, with its capital Erbil.

The Barzani Charity Foundation received the Wings of Help Award for its ongoing commitment in an extremely challenging political region with a wide variety of groups and nationalities. LOG/WoH has been connected to the region for over ten years through aid programmes, but also through its support for schools established in the camps. These schools benefit from LOG/WoH’s ‘Education is Future’ programme, for example through the provision of computers and connections to the network of universities in the Erbil metropolitan area.

For years, LOG/WoH has been supporting facilities for sick and orphaned children in Romania, particularly those suffering from haemophilia. The aid is directed primarily to the Centre for Children and Young People with Diabetes and Haemophilia run by the Christian-Serban-Foundation in Buzias, the only specialist clinic in Romania where young patients are admitted as inpatients for several weeks. There, they learn to manage their conditions and cope with everyday life. In 2025, the Christian-Serban-Foundation was awarded the 'Romanian Healthcare Award' in the 'Hospital of the Year' category. LOG/WoH has been supporting the facility for many years in partnership with Bayerische Kinderhilfe Rumänien e.V., and uses this aid bridge to deliver food, clothing and hygiene products by lorry.

The Christian-Serban-Foundation Hospital in Romania...

... cares for around 200 children suffering from diabetes and haemophilia. Doctors and nursing staff provide guidance on how to manage haemophilia independently in everyday life. LOG/WoH has been supporting the hospital, together with Bayerische Kinderhilfe Rumänien e.V., for many years. Kinderhilfe was founded 35 years ago by Professor Dr Wolfgang Schramm and regional politician Barbara Schramm. In the city of Iasi, the Bavarian charity has also set up nurseries and shelters for mothers and children. In the village of Pastraveni, it transformed a dreadful care home for disabled children into a real home. Every year, lorries from Germany travel to Romania carrying clothing, baby food and medicines. The organisation has close ties with LOG/WoH and, in this context, has also supported other humanitarian projects run by Luftfahrt ohne Grenzen/Wings of Help in Romania and, more broadly, in Ukraine.

In 2025, the board of Bayerische Kinderhilfe Rumänien, Professor Dr Wolfgang Schramm, paid tribute to the long-standing and fruitful collaboration with LOG/WoH, which, in addition to the facility in Buzias, also extends to Pastraveni, a village in north-eastern Romania where around 200 children with disabilities live. Pastraveni has developed from a village where disabled residents were once inhumanely locked away into a flagship project for social and psychosocial care. Professor Schramm said: “The primary aim was to rescue the residents from their unspeakable situation and to help them become independent – and this has been achieved through decades of support and excellent care.” The horrific experiences in Romania also motivated Bayerische Kinderhilfe Rumänien and LOG/WoH in 2025 to carry out joint humanitarian missions in war-torn Ukraine. The Bavarian children’s charity funded nine lorry convoys to Romania and Ukraine with donations in kind, organised by our organisation.

Luftfahrt ohne Grenzen / Wings of Help e.V. is revamping its public image: with the new logo 'Luftfahrt ohne Grenzen / ASF-Germany', our organisation is signalling its affiliation with a notable network of ten independent aid organisations, all of which operate entirely apolitically and autonomously with great success within their own specific fields of activity. Through the joint Aviation Sans Frontières International (ASF) charter, they are all committed to cooperating even more effectively across national borders in the field of humanitarian aid. The umbrella organisation currently comprises the following ten countries: France, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, the Netherlands, Finland, Spain, the United Kingdom, the USA and Canada.

Symbol for help worldwide

From 2026, Luftfahrt ohne Grenzen / Wings of Help (LOG/WoH) will add the 'ASF Germany' emblem to its logo: ASF stands for Aviation Sans Frontières International, a network of ten aid organisations operating worldwide, of which LOG has been an active member as the German partner for many years. LOG will remain completely unchanged in its structure as a registered association and will make greater use of the synergies offered by ASF than before. The address for the successful German LOG website, www.wingsofhelp.org, will also remain unchanged.

All national ASF organisations share the same goal: to help people in need, utilising aircraft as a vital, rapid and cross-border means of transport. In doing so, each organisation sets its own priorities, both in terms of logistics and geography: they occasionally provide pilots for flight missions, contribute cargo logistics and also draw on historical ties, such as those that exist in air transport to Africa.

On a financial level, too, ASF aims to pool resources in order to deliver aid even more efficiently. This also involves exploring new methods of transporting aid supplies, such as unmanned cargo drones, which can be deployed particularly in Africa. A project of this kind is currently being developed, which ASF presented at the 2025 Paris Air Show.

The countries agree that the global environment for humanitarian organisations is characterised by extremely fierce competition, influenced above all by the wars in Ukraine, the Middle East and other conflict zones. They are convinced that it is only by working together that it is possible to secure significant funding for humanitarian projects. In addition to closer cooperation amongst themselves, there is a strong focus on the associated greater opportunities to secure financial support, particularly from government bodies such as the EU and from UN humanitarian agencies such as ECHO and OCHA. This was also evident at the International ASF Conference in Paris, which was attended by representatives of LOG/WoH from Germany, as well as at the anniversary event organised by ASF France to mark the organisation’s 45th anniversary, which is regarded as the founding organisation of the umbrella association.

The partial restrictions on air travel, as well as the sharp rise in air freight prices – which are up to five times higher than they were six or seven years ago – are making the organisations’ work more difficult. The ASF network will continue to strengthen its links with companies that, for example, champion discounted air freight space and improved transport options, including by land, when it comes to charity projects. LOG/WoH has had particularly close ties with the ASF network for many years: firstly through LOG/WoH founder Frank Franke, who sits on the ASF Executive Committee, and secondly through Marie-Luise Thüne, who is Secretary-General of the umbrella organisation and also Vice-President of LOG/WoH in Germany.

Announcements from the organisation

Reorganised for the future

Ralf Bülter - President | Marie-Luise Thüne - Vice President | Bernhard Hau - Legal Affairs

Luftfahrt ohne Grenzen / Wings of Help e.V. (LOG/WoH) has reorganised itself to meet the challenges and tasks of the future. At the general meeting held in October 2025 at the LOG/WoH premises in Cargo City Süd at Frankfurt Airport, the members elected Ralf Bülter as the new president; he had held the position of vice-president three years previously. Marie-Luise Thüne succeeds him in this role as Vice-President; she too was elected by the members with an overwhelming majority. Marie-Luise Thüne is a co-founder of the organisation and was previously responsible for national and international contacts and political affairs. At the same time, she will continue to serve as Secretary-General of the association Aviation Sans Frontières International (ASF) in her new role.

Bernhard Hau was appointed to the new 'Legal Affairs' portfolio on the Executive Board by a large majority. A lawyer with decades of experience, he had previously been involved on several occasions in humanitarian projects in Africa and in the funding of LOG/WoH before now taking over the Legal Affairs portfolio on the new Executive Board. He replaces the previous board member, Hans-Joachim Sauer. Werner Claasen (Communications) and Guido Holz (Media, Film and TV) were unanimously re-elected to their existing positions on the Executive Board. In accordance with the rotation schedule, Jürgen Wingenfeld (Finance) and Professor Dr Hauke Lang (Medical Affairs) did not stand for re-election.

Announcements from the organisation

Ralf Bülter outlined the direction in which LOG/WoH should continue to move: an internationally positioned aid organisation with a modern approach and increasing digitalisation across many areas. LOG/WoH will remain based in the Rhine-Main region and at Frankfurt Airport, which houses the LOG/WoH headquarters via Fraport AG. Future operations will once again focus increasingly on projects that clearly involve air transport, following the war in Ukraine, which forced LOG/WoH to rely more and more on logistics services by lorry. In this context, Bülter thanked all the supporters who have been closely associated with LOG/WoH for many years. "Without them, our organisation's development would have stalled. We are delighted to have such a strong backbone and promise to continue to ensure a high level of transparency and efficiency in our predominantly voluntary work."

The General Meeting expressed its wholehearted thanks to Frank Franke, the outgoing President and founder of LOG/WoH. Franke will remain associated with the organisation. Bülter said: "He has developed LOG/WoH into an internationally respected organisation and built up an outstanding reputation, based on a high level of trust, amongst supporters from Germany right through to the USA." The new team will continue to benefit from Frank Franke's experience in the future. He will be available to offer advice on a wide range of matters.

Announcements from the organisation

No future without education

Most refugees worldwide are minors. Among them are around 12.4 million children and young people of school age – and almost half of them have no access to education. Yet school is crucial, particularly for young refugees, in building a new future in a foreign country. “Education protects, strengthens and empowers. For refugees, education is often the decisive step away from dependence and uncertainty towards self-determination – and the key to shaping their own future,” says Ricarda Brandts, Chair of the Board of UNO-Flüchtlingshilfe. Whether it’s school, vocational training or university: education opens up opportunities, boosts self-confidence and lays the foundations for an independent life. LOG/WoH has run its own programme for many years, called ‘Bildung ist Zukunft/Education is Future’.

The Le Bourget / Paris Air Show...

...is attended not only by 2,400 industry companies from all sectors of aviation across 50 countries, but also by humanitarian organisations such as the umbrella organisation Aviation Sans Frontières International (ASF, pictured), which comprises ten aid organisations from Europe and North America. The German member is Luftfahrt ohne Grenzen / Wings of Help (LOG/WoH), which was also in attendance. The ASF Cessna on display – which is used as a flying hospital in Africa – attracted a great deal of interest, but even more so did a newly developed drone. It delivers life-saving aid over long distances to inaccessible regions and has even been used for flights in Antarctica to supply research stations with equipment. Our photo shows the crew at the ASF stand with (from left) ASF Secretary-General Marie-Luise Thüne, Christian Georlette, President of ASF International Belgium, Jean Yves Große, Vice-President of ASF International France, Frank Franke, ASF Vice-President Germany, David Haub, ASF President Belgium, and Koen Kox, President of ASF International Netherlands.

In 2025, interest in our website www.wingsofhelp.org remained as high as ever – primarily because the site contains around 1,500 files providing detailed information about our work. These range from our current international missions, through information on ‘Where our organisation stands today’, to tables showing the financial performance of Luftfahrt ohne Grenzen/Wings of Help, which we have prepared and audited by chartered accountants, for example for the German Donations Council. Our website attracts around 5,000 to 6,000 visitors per month; they access the site via mobile devices and laptops and are interested in the structure of our relief operations and the composition of our team. Donations to us are predominantly made via PayPal, followed by credit card payments. In our visitor statistics, Germany consistently ranks first, followed – in varying order – by the USA, the major EU countries, as well as visitors from, for example, China and other countries in Asia.

Announcements from around the world

Famine caused by natural disasters

Extreme weather has always led to food crises, droughts, or the destruction of crops. With climate change, extreme weather events are on the rise. Droughts lasting several consecutive years weaken the resilience of the population. People are forced to use up their seed reserves or slaughter their livestock.

Climate crisis: Number of Disasters Doubles

The consequences of the climate crisis are major causes of hunger and poverty worldwide. The number of natural disasters has more than doubled since 1990 as a result of climate change. The number of people suffering from hunger could rise by another 600 million by 2080 due to the climate crisis. The consequences and damage caused by climate-related disasters are not only devastating for people and their livelihoods but also result in significant financial costs. People in lower-income countries are hardest hit by the consequences. They lack sufficient resources to cope with the effects of the climate crisis. Extreme weather events, in particular, are exacerbated by the climate crisis. Added to this are poverty, wars, conflicts, and inequality, which further compound the problems.

Where is there hunger?

Welthungerhilfe (WHH) provides an accurate picture of global nutrition and hunger. To this end, it measures the nutritional status of the population using four indicators. The report has been published by Welthungerhilfe in collaboration with partners for the past 20 years. The most severe hunger crises are concentrated in sub-Saharan Africa and South Asia. According to the 2025 World Hunger Index, the hunger situation is very severe in seven countries: Burundi, the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Haiti, Yemen, Madagascar, Somalia, and South Sudan. In another 35 countries, hunger is classified as severe. In addition, the situation has deteriorated again in many countries: While 22 countries were affected by moderate, severe, or very severe WHH scores last year, by 2025 there will already be 27 countries where hunger has increased since 2016.

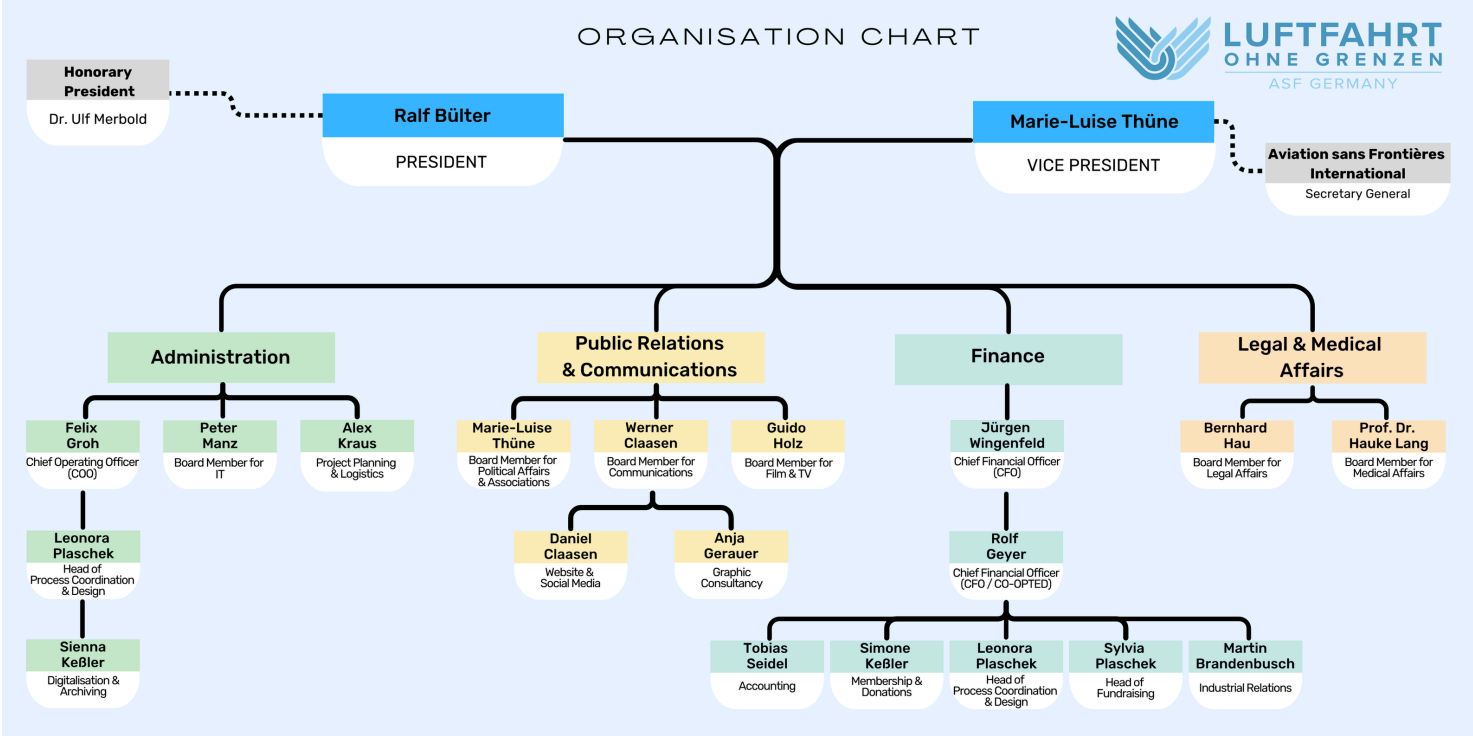

Sudan: Returning home despite great uncertainty

While war rages in large parts of the country, there are now some relatively safe areas in Sudan. Due to the precarious living conditions faced by internally displaced persons and refugees, many people are choosing to return. By the end of 2025, more than 1 million internally displaced persons had returned to their home regions. At the same time, some 344,000 refugees returned from Egypt alone. After more than two years of war, large parts of Sudan lie in ruins. The returnees are left with nothing.

The Future: The launch of Terminal 3 at Frankfurt Airport...

...began with a presentation by Luftfahrt ohne Grenzen / Wings of Help (LOG/WoH), which had its own booth in the check-in hall of the massive terminal - which, after ten years of construction, is expected to handle 19 million passengers annually. Over a weekend in March 2026, on an area the size of 23 soccer fields, Fraport companies and federal institutions had the opportunity to inform tens of thousands of guests about their work. LOG/WoH also took advantage of this opportunity, especially since the LOG/WoH office is located just a few hundred metres away as the crow flies in Cargo City South, thus demonstrating its strong connection to Frankfurt Airport. Like no other humanitarian organisation, LOG/WoH is so closely linked to the airport as a major global logistics hub in the heart of the bustling Rhine-Main region.
